Angela is an experienced leader having worked in Senior Leadership as both an Assistant Headteacher and Deputy Headteacher. She is currently a Lead Practitioner leading on Quality Assurance and CPL. She has also taught History to GCSE for 19 years as well as some GCSE English, KS3 Geography, RE, L2L and British Values.

Angela has a vast amount of experience in delivering CPL within her own school and others. She is passionate about Teaching and Learning and using the latest techniques to engage learners and improve outcomes. Angela is very keen to fire-up the enthusiasm of other practitioners through engaging CPL. Some of the workshops she has delivered include pedagogical topics such as: questioning techniques, engaging learners and effective feedback. Her style of delivering CPL is very active and ensures that teachers who attend leave with practical strategies they can apply to their own teaching.

As well as pedagogical CPL, Angela has also supported schools in developing Quality Assurance and Continuous Professional Learning systems that engage staff in the process and are bespoke to individual and team needs. The systems that she has developed in her own school have seen a significant increase in staff engagement in their own CPL and improvements in the quality of teaching.

Angela has acted as a teaching and learning mentor to staff developing their own teaching. She is also an experienced coach and currently works with aspiring leaders as part of the DfE project, 'Women Leading Education'. Angela is extremely personable, an effective listener and coach who will work alongside you to develop systems that work for you.
