

Behaviour and Attendance – Ian McNulty

Ian McNulty is currently Lead Teacher for Behaviour in a MAT in Lancashire.

Ian works in an 11-16 school who have gained an above average P8 score of +0.45, putting the school in the top 7% of the country for progress.

Ian believes in building relationships with students based on mutual respect which engender a sense of community.

Empowering all members of staff with consistent and rigorous routines and strategies enable behaviour systems that are constant, whether dealing with low level disruption or more serious unwanted behaviours.

As an educator and leader, Ian is keen to facilitate training ranging from least intrusive behaviour management techniques to whole school ethos.

As an SLE Ian can support schools with:

- Behaviour systems and procedures
- Least intrusive methods of behaviour modification
- Training and development of staff to ensure a consistent and affective approach to Behaviour Management
- Coaching members of staff in order to increase their confidence and improve performance
- Social Media/Internet Safety
- ACE Training
- PREVENT and British Values Training
